

kāru

keep the wild alive

Modern Childhood is Screen-Deep

Kids are growing up disconnected from the earth that sustains life.

The rhythms of nature, the thrill of fire,
the wisdom of trees – all lost to Wi-Fi and tablets.

The wild is being forgotten.
And, with it, something essential.

The Quest

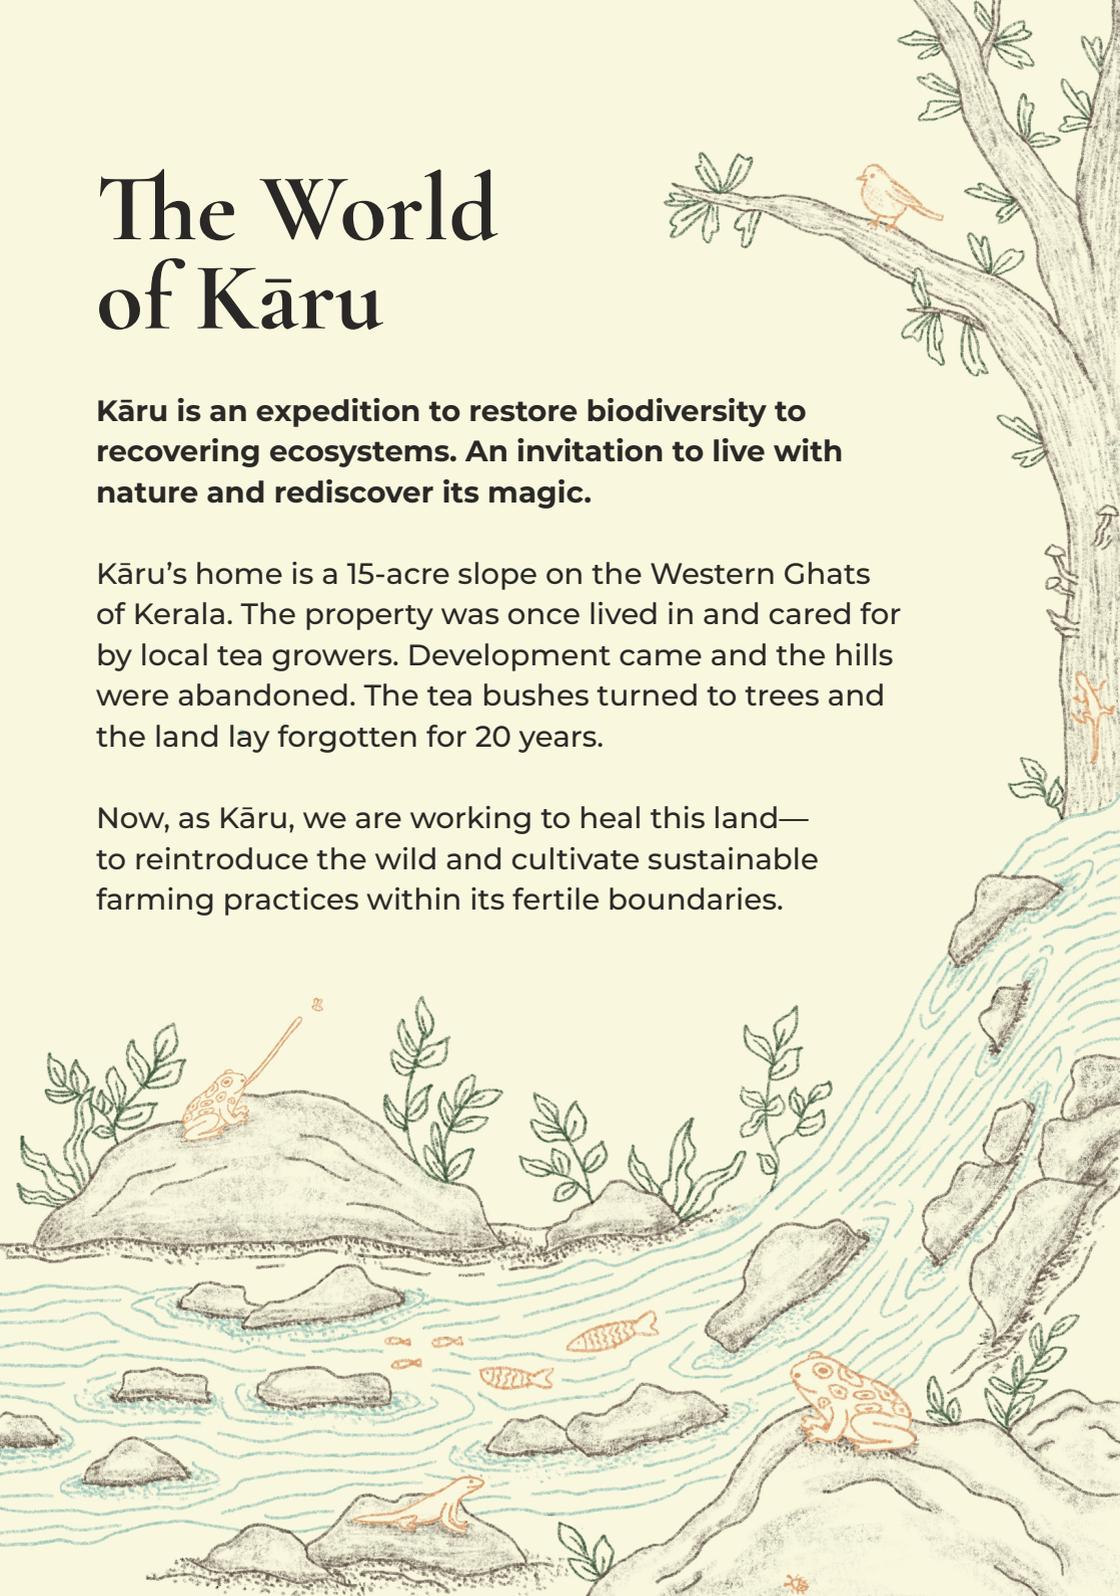

To educate the novice adventurer on how to live in the wilderness & facilitate the restoration of nature.

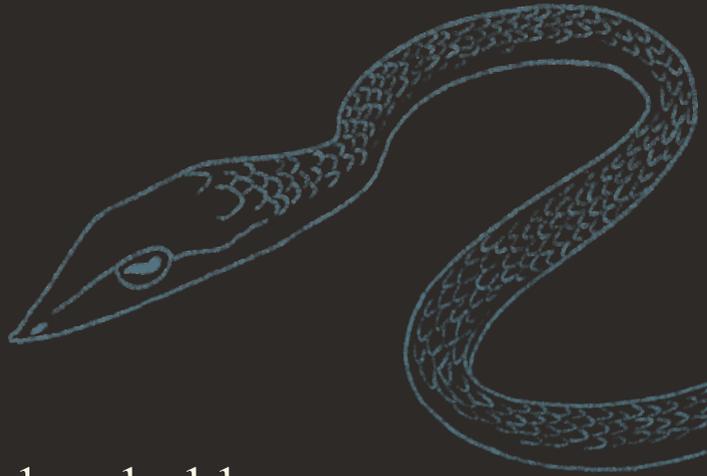

The World of Kāru

Kāru is an expedition to restore biodiversity to recovering ecosystems. An invitation to live with nature and rediscover its magic.

Kāru's home is a 15-acre slope on the Western Ghats of Kerala. The property was once lived in and cared for by local tea growers. Development came and the hills were abandoned. The tea bushes turned to trees and the land lay forgotten for 20 years.

Now, as Kāru, we are working to heal this land—to reintroduce the wild and cultivate sustainable farming practices within its fertile boundaries.

Cross our threshold.
Get your hands dirty in a week-long workshop where you'll lead reforestation and wilderness survival skills.

Kāru calls on conservationists

Do you love teaching children?

Run nature-education workshops that guide the next generation of young minds.

Are looking for a supplementary source of income?

Kāru pays a fee per (7-day) workshop.

Do you want more visibility for your work?

Kāru creates video and audio content, and online education courses.

Life getting hectic? Would you like a break?

Enjoy a free stay, to unwind after workshops, courses, or programs.

Are you looking for land for conservation work?

Kāru offers ample space to practice their learnings.

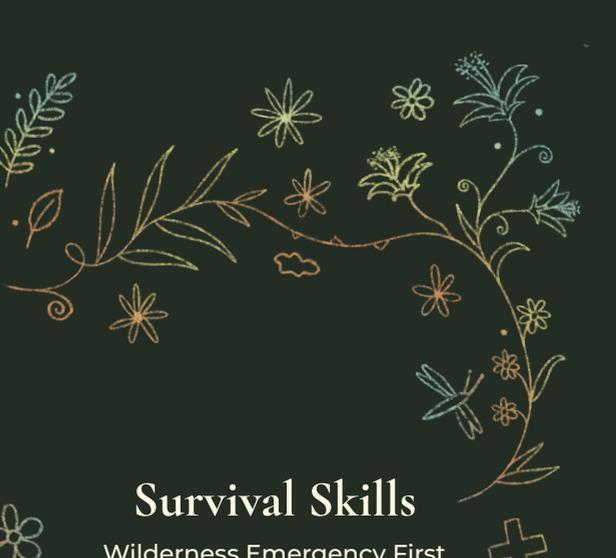

Want to connect with other conservationists?

Kāru provides the ability to move out of silos, and network with other professionals. We also hold chats/talks specifically for knowledge/resource exchange.

Reforestation

Planting indigenous species and learning about their critical role in creating healthy ecosystems.

Survival Skills

Wilderness Emergency First Response skills taught by certified professionals.

Kāru's Ingredients

Mental Well-Being

Simply being surrounded by trees, along with nature-based activities including art.

Storytelling

Fireplace stories and dinner that open the imagination and weave the connection between life, history, and nature.

Seven Day Rewilding Experience

A transformational outdoor experience designed to rebuild your child's connection with nature, themselves, and each other.

Location: Kerala

Camping

Children live in nature — clean, safe, and stripped of excess. Tents under the stars. Mornings kissed by dew. Nights wrapped in the sounds of the wild. A little discomfort, a lot of discovery.

Fresh, Farm-to-Table Meals

Prepared by local hands using seasonal produce. Healthy. Wholesome. Grounded in the region's flavour and wisdom. Food that nourishes the body and roots it in place.

DAY 1	DAY 2	DAY 3	DAY 4	DAY 5	DAY 6	DAY 7
Arrival & Settling In	Safety & Orientation		Rewilding In Action			Return

Kāru's Code

Safety

All expeditions are run by wilderness-certified professionals with decades of combined experience, including ex-military instructors and certified emergency-first responders. Emergency protocols are airtight.

Led by Experts

The ecological restoration work is led by experienced conservationists who are passionate about both nature education and conservation.

No Screens

Tech-free days to help kids reconnect, refocus, and reset.

Lead a Kāru Expedition

Let's reconnect adventurers with the wilderness,
risk, and the power of working with hands.

Application Form

Click here to apply!

Call us

+91 789 302 3300

+91 992 020 6246

Explore

karu.earth

kāru

keep the wild alive